1. This application was filed under 35 U.S.C. 371 and the unity of invention requirement applies.

There is lack of unity PCT Rule 13 because there is no "special technical feature" common to all the Groups that defines the contribution each of the invention makes over the prior art. In the present case, there is no "special technical feature" because the general inventive concept set forth, for example, in for instance claims 58 or 75, does not define over the teachings of the prior art set forth, for example, in IDS items Browne (WO 96/36969), Flynn (4,333,796) (see IDS) or Lo (WO 97/49274) (see IDS); while different inventions are claimed, e.g., fusionable material in gaseous bubble (claims 67-68), fusionable material in micro-balloon (claim 69).

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 58-74 and 87, drawn to a method for initiating nuclear fusion, classified in class 376, subclass 102+.
- II. Claims 75-86, drawn to nuclear fusion reactor apparatus, classified in class 376, subclass 152+.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus, for instance, one in which the fusionable material has a location congruent with the location of the liquid in said liquid filled vessel, said directing of said acoustic pulse in the method being done so as to ensure the convergence of said acoustic pulse on the liquid in said liquid filled vessel (hence the method is as claimed), thereby obviating the need for a tracking system in the apparatus; while, conversely, the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process, for instance the generation of ultraviolet light through sonoluminescence.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

- A. fusionable material in gaseous bubble
- B. fusionable material in microballoon

The species are independent or distinct because, claimed alternatively, fusionable material in a microballoon is located outside, in a gaseous bubble trapped inside, said liquid in said liquid filled vessel.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim appears generic.

Art Unit: 3663

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.

MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
